Complete Official Tabulation By Secretary of State Is Announced.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 22.—The official count in the state wide primary election held Aug. 14 today gave the Democratic short term U. S. Senatorial nomination to Graham P. Hunt, Cincinnati.

Hunt defeated Senator Cyrus Locher, Cleveland, dry, by the slim majority of 757. He was the only avowed wet who succeeded in winning nomination in the primary.

Also on the Republican side the race between George C. Braden of Warren and John T. Brown of Mechanicsburg for the nomination for lieutenant governor was too close for comfort. Brown finally won.

BANKERS LEARN HOW ON FARM TOUR HERE

BOY, 15, ADMITS THAT HE STOLE AT CHILLICOTHE

Cincinnati Youth Back In Lancaster Industrial School After Escapades.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22.—Paul Grutzmacher, 15, Cincinnati youth who escaped from the Lancaster Industrial school recently was at "home" today, following a short but colorful career in which he stole a car in Bexley, and robbed several homes there and others in Ohio and Michigan cities, finally being captured near Detroit.

Grutzmacher was returned to Bexley late yesterday by Marshall David Shadrach and Chief of Police Jack Grey of Bexley, who then took him back to the Industrial school.

The youth confessed to stealing the Packard sedan of Howard Heed Columbus, driving it to Dayton, where he said he entered two homes.

Then he went to Highland Park, Mich., a Detroit suburb, where he confessed to entering two more homes, finally being caught as he was robbing a third.

He also confessed to entering eight homes in Columbus and three in Chillicothe and two stores in Highland Park, Mich.

Pickaway-co farmers are proud of the fact that out of 15 master farmers chosen from all parts of rural Ohio last year, two of them were from their county.

The first farm visited on the tour of the bankers was that of a master farmer, J. C. Stevenson. He is the father of Dr. Frank B. Stevenson, professor of pediatrics at the University of Cincinnati.

The master farmer told how he doubled his potato crop by growing Irish potatoes under straw. He gets 300 bushels from an acre. It took care, however, to get this double yield. Stevenson dusted the potato patch six times this season.

He puts the straw on to keep the weeds out and hold the moisture in. The quality of the crop is improved, too. He spread 1000 pounds of fertilizer on the potato patch this year but thinks 500 would have been enough.

"This farm is a lot better than it was when I came here 20 years ago," Stevenson said. Showing off his white-face and Hereford calves, he said: "I have been raising cattle 35 years and never have had a loss yet." He said manure from his herd is worth $3000 a year to the farm. His calves are a little over a year old. The 91 in the herd cost 10 cents a 100 pounds to feed. His calves cost him $42 a head to buy, and weighed 371 pounds at purchase. They now weigh 700 pounds each.

The tour assembled at the Farm Bureau Home where the group inspected the new home of the permanent quarters of the Farm Bureau.

Edward C. Reiter, president of the Pickaway County Farm Bureau organization, planned the tour of set-up which Pickaway county farm producers have donated. He also pointed out the services which are rendered by the Farm Bureau and its related organizations.

Stevenson's County Agent explained the relation of the extension service to the Farm Bureau program. He said the extension service is the one which brings the knowledge of the farmer and the farmer's knowledge to the community.

The first stop was made at a Stevenson farm where a farm jackpot was shown. Stevenson showed the production of potatoes under straw. Mr. Stevenson exhibited a variety of Hereford cattle and told of the method of feeding which he is practicing. Stevenson stated that cattle are a distinct profit to the farm operations and that he had

He's Ready for the Big Event

BOY WHO CAME UP FROM RANK HERO OF HOUR

And Tonight Will Take Command of Democratic Forces He Represents.

By THOMAS L. STOKES
United Press Staff Correspondent

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 22.—The man who came to this city 25 years ago, unheralded and known only as "Al" Smith, a slender young fellow with the tang of the bowery in his speech, will take command tonight of the democratic forces of the nation.

The man whom thousands will hail tonight as their political leader has come much farther than the distance from the east side to this city perched above the Hudson, gay today with a carnival spirit and alive with throngs to do him honor.

An East Side boy who has attained high political success, he will stand in proof of the American romantic legend—a hero plucked from one of those old fashioned plays in which he delighted to act as a young man. In those days he usually was picked for the villain. Tonight he will be the hero.

Gov. Alfred E. Smith, the democratic nominee, will see a striking contrast as he stands before the vast throng and looks down brightly lighted State street, fluttering with banners, and recalls a young man who trudged up the same street, dark and forbidding, one cold January night 25 years ago to take up his duties as an assembly man. That represents the distance between that night and this.

Incident of that night: When he saw the then Governor Benjamin B. Odell, who came on same train with him from New York, step into a sleigh and wrap fur robes about him, he turned to his companion, Tommy Caughlan, and said: "That's the job for me."

Albany has known him as governor. She has opened her gates with an old-fashioned welcome to his party followers who want to call him president. There was an atmosphere of the county fair on governor's day about the town today, as thousands more came by automobile, train and boat to join the thousands already here in

LYLE AND MARION GIVEN CONTRACT

The county commissioners at a meeting held Monday, awarded the contract for putting in new boilers and a vacuum heating system in the court house to Lyle and Marion, at their bid of $9,300.

The old heating system was condemned by the state inspector of boilers, which forced the commissioners to put in a new system. The old system was out of date anyway, so the county auditor told the representative of this paper, and while they were at it, the commissioners decided to install the new and more modern system as it would save in the consumption of coal, saving nearly one half. Automatic stokers will be used.

Besides the successful bidders three other bids were received.

OHIO'S LEGION VETERANS GOING TO JOBS TODAY

Akron Selected As Next Convention City; Warren Man Is New Commander.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22.—Ohio Legionnaires were back at their work today after one of the most colorful conventions in the history of the organization.

Interest in the final session, which was not concluded until late yesterday, centered around the selection of the 1929 convention city, and it was not until after a rollick by posts that Akron was selected. Discussion of the convention city was a signal for activity, with Sandusky and Cleveland delegations clamoring for honor of being next year's host.

The convention city committee recommended Sandusky, and the battle was on Cleveland legionnaires put on such a demonstration that the committee's recommendation was defeated. Another vote was taken and Akron was selected.

Miss McKenzie Tells How To Raise Chickens; Stevenson Talks on Potatoes

"Sun Parlor for Chickens!" Miss Mary McKenzie, Pickaway-co poultry raiser, plans three of them for her model chicken houses this winter, she told the Ohio Bankers' Association members Tuesday when they visited her farm on their third agricultural tour.

She wants the hens to get real sunshine in the winter so they will lay better. Experiments have shown the sun shining thru glass does not have as beneficial an effect on the fowls as direct solar rays.

Miss McKenzie first started keeping chickens so she could have eggs for the table in the winter, then she bought a flock of Barred Rocks. To this she added Leghorns to obtain more eggs.

On advice of the Ohio State Experiment Station she built a model chicken house within 100 feet of her home.

"It keeps thieves away and saves me steps," she said. She now has a demonstration farm that is an example for farmers for miles around. Every December a university expert comes and certifies the pedigrees of her hens. The poultry house has many unique features including a revolving car over the feed boxes that does not permit the chickens to roost there long.

Pickaway-co farmers are proud of the fact that out of 15 master farmers chosen from all parts of rural Ohio last year, two of them were from their county.

The first farm visited on the tour of the bankers was that of a master farmer, J. C. Stevenson. He is the father of Dr. Frank B. Stevenson, professor ophthalmology at the University of Cincinnati. The master farmer told how he doubled his potato crop by growing Irish potatoes under straw. He gets 300 bushels from an acre. It took care, however, to get this double yield. Stevenson dusted the potato patch six times this season.

He puts the straw on to keep the weeds out and hold the moisture in. The quality of the crop is improved, too. He spread 1000 pounds of fertilizer on the potato patch this year but thinks 500 would have been enough."

"This farm is a lot better than it was when I came here 30 years ago," Stevenson said. Showing off his white-face and Hereford calves, he said: "I have been raising cattle 35 years and never have had a loss yet." He said manure from his herd is worth $1000 a year to the farm. His calves are a little over a year old. The 91 in the herd cost 10 cents a 100 pounds to feed. His calves cost him $42 a head to buy, and weighed 371 pounds at purchase. They now weigh 750 pounds each.

The tour assembled at the Farm Bureau Home where the group inspected the new home of the permanent quarters of the Farm Bureau.

Edward C. Rector, president of the Pickaway County Farm Bureau organization, explained the type of set-up which Pickaway county farm producers have developed. He also explained the services which are being rendered thru the Farm Bureau and its affiliated organizations. H. S. Lewis, County Agent, explained the Relation of the Extension Service to the Farm Bureau program stressing the advantages that the Farm Bureau offers as a vehicle thru which livestock, crops and soils improvement work is being developed.

The first stop was made at John C. Stevenson & Son's farm, in Jackson-twp. Mr. Stevenson discussed the production of potatoes under straw. Mr. Stevenson also exhibited a carload of Hereford cattle and told of the methods of feeding which he is employing in producing economic beef. Mr. Stevenson stated that cattle is a distinct project in his farm operations and that he had

FESS SAYS HE DID NOT SPEND A CENT

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 22.—Senator Fess' campaign for the Republican nomination for senator did not cost him a penny, he said here today. Fess' only expense, incidental for renomination, was the $25 filing charge and this he does not count.

"I had no opposition and it was not necessary to incur expenses," he explained.

Senator Fess will leave for Columbus Thursday to attend the organization of the state central committee.

SECURES RELEASE

Renest Paxton, who was placed under arrest in Columbus, by Deputy Sheriff John G. Ward Jr., and Carl Porter, and brought to this city to answer a charge of failure to provide, was later released on order from the Prosecuting attorney, E. A. Brown. He agreed to make the proper provision for the support of his child, and was given a chance.

C. A. Jones, of Columbus, receiver of the First-Citizens National bank of Mt. Sterling, closed last May, has announced that all owners of securities left for safe-keeping with the Mt. Sterling bank and by that bank, re-deposited at Columbus, may secure same by calling at the Huntington National bank in Columbus on Friday, Aug. 24, from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m.

All deliveries of such securities and the contents of safe deposit boxes will be subject to the usual rules governing transactions with suspended banks, Mr. Jones states.

LYLE AND MARION GIVEN CONTRACT

The county commissioners at a meeting held Monday, awarded the contract for putting in new boilers and a vacuum heating system in the court house to Lyle and Marion, at their bid of $9,300.

The old heating system was condemned by the state inspector of boilers, which forced the commissioners to put in a new system. The old system was out of date anyway, so the county auditor told the representative of this paper, and while they were at it, the commissioners decided to install the new and more modern system, as it would save in the consumption of coal, saving nearly one half. Automatic stokers will be used.

Besides the successful bidders, three other bids were received.

TEMPERANCE LEGION ENTERTAINS KIDDIES

Eighty members of the Loyal Temperance Legion of Williamsport, under the guardianship of Mrs. Andrew Schwartz and Mrs. Anna Boots, officers of the League, held a picnic at the Children's Home, Tuesday. The inmates of the Home were their guests.

The happy voices of the boys and girl members of the League resounded with their "rah rah" slogans as they passed thru the city, seated in the school busses on their way to the Home. They are a lively bunch of kids, and Williamsport can be proud of the rising generation.

BOY WHO CAME UP FROM RANK HERO OF HOUR

And Tonight Will Take Command of Democratic Forces He Represents.

By THOMAS L. STOKES

United Press Staff Correspondent

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 22.—The man who came to this city 25 years ago, unheralded and known only as "Al" Smith, a slender young fellow with the tang of the bowery in his speech, will take command tonight of the democratic forces of the nation.

The man whom thousands will hail tonight as their political leader has come much farther than the distance from the east side to this city perched above the Hudson, gay today with a carnival spirit and alive with throngs to do him honor.

An East Side boy who has attained high political success, he will stand in proof of the American romantic legend—a hero plucked from one of those old fashioned plays in which he delighted to act as a young man. In those days he usually was picked for the villain. Tonight he will be the hero.

Gov. Alfred E. Smith, the democratic nominee, will see a striking contrast as he stands before the vast throng and looks down brightly lighted State street, fluttering with banners, and recalls a young man who trudged up the same street, dark and forbidding, one cold January night 25 years ago to take up his duties as an assembly man. That represents the distance between that night and this.

He probably will remember an incident of that night. When he saw the then Governor Benjamin B. Odell, who came on same train with him from New York, step into a sleigh and wrap fur robes about him, he turned to his companion, Tommy Coughlan, and said:

"That's the job for me." Albany has known him as governor. She has opened her gates with an old-fashioned welcome to his party followers who want to call him president. There was an atmosphere of the county fair on governor's day about the town today, as thousands more came by automobile, train and boat to join the thousands already here in (Turn to page five, please)

Akron Selected As Next Convention City; Warren Man Is New Commander.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22.—Ohio Legionnaires were back at their work today after one of the most colorful conventions in the history of the organization.

Interest in the final session, which was not concluded until late yesterday, centered around the selection of the 1929 convention city, and it was not until after a rollcall by posts that Akron was selected. Discussion of the convention city was a signal for activity, with Sandusky and Cleveland delegations clamoring for honor of being next year's host.

The convention city committee recommended Sandusky, and the battle was on. Cleveland legionnaires put on such a demonstration that the committee's recommendation was defeated. Another vote was taken and Akron was selected.

Raymond G. Ingersoll, Warren, was unanimously elected department commander, succeeding George Denny, Middletown.

Major Roy H. Jamieson, Cleveland, was elected first vice commander, representing the army; and Frank Winters, Troy, was elected third vice commander, representing the marines.

Peter Forsythe, Caldwell, was elected department treasurer. All officers have been active in Legion affairs, both in their local posts and state department.

PUNCHES PILE UP IN FIGHTS HERE TUESDAY

And Reversed Decisions Have Fans at Sunshine Club Show Still Wondering.

Reversed decisions and plenty of punches featured the Sunshine Athletic club's boxing show at Mason's field Tuesday night. A good crowd found occasion to cheer a lot and jeer still more, but despite the official shortcomings it was a good evening's entertainment after all.

INTRODUCTION OF THE NEW KONJOLA MEDICINE HAILED

Many People Calling At the Mykrantz Pharmacy To Learn Its Merits.

Immediately following yesterday's announcement that the advanced medical preparation, Konjola, was to be introduced in Circleville, many local people were eagerly seeking this medicine and

G. H. MOSBY

Discoverer of Konjola. telling of reports about it which they had received from relatives and friends in Cincinnati and other large cities where the herbal compound was previously introduced. Many who called at the Mykrantz Pharmacy, stated they already knew about this medicine and some had secured it thru acquaintances at larger cities.

The extent to which this Konjola has aroused interest proves very clearly that health troubles, due to disordered stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, are so common that hundreds are suffering daily. The forms of misery described by a great many sufferers interviewed yesterday, were as follows:

STOMACH: Indigestion and gas bloating, feeling like a rock in the stomach, which in reality is a mass of undigested food, dyspepsia, intense pain in the stomach and chest, wild heart palpitation, feeling like a rock from the throat to the pit of the stomach, awful headaches, loss of weight, strength and tissue, sour stomach, dizzy spells, cramps, spitting up bits of half-digested food and a hot, sour liquid.

LIVER: Attacks of biliousness, sick headaches that may last for days, constipation, dizzy spells, yellowish complexion.

KIDNEYS: Sharp pains over the kidneys, a dull, aching feeling across the back, stiffness in the back and lower limbs, especially in the mornings just before arising, frequent getting out of bed, during the night, dizziness, spots before the eyes, lack of vitality.

BOWELS: Painful, bloated feeling in the lower stomach, worn out feeling, sleeplessness.

Many other forms of suffering arise from the disordered condition of the system that results from a sluggish stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. For instance, there may be rheumatic and neuritis troubles, with its agonizing aches and pains.

The above forms of suffering yield readily to the work of Konjola and this medical preparation has so completely ended the health troubles of so many thousands in larger cities that it is declared to be what countless sufferers in this section have long needed to actually reach their cases.

Konjola is now being sold for the first time in Circleville at the Mykrantz Pharmacy, where many people are calling throughout the day to find out about this surprising new medicine.—Adv.

went on for six rounds with Wild cat Malone, of Marion, who was announced at 130 pounds, to a judges' decision.

Both experienced boxers, these boys didn't begin to mix it until the third round. Calvin did most of the leading, but Malone, who is nobody's fool in the ring, held him off with straight-arm jabs. They devoted most of their time to rushing each other into, over and under the ropes, with worth-while blows few and far between.

Malone Wins
Sailor Marshall refereed the bout, and was kept busy prying the boys apart.

At the conclusion Marshall announced the fight a draw. Everybody yelled—for or against—and several minutes after the fighters had left the ring, Marshall announced Malone as the winner.

By far the most entertaining scrap was of six rounds between Gene Smith of Circleville and Kid Cline of Ashland, Ky., at 126 pounds.

Handicapped in height and reach tough little Gene had to skyrocket his punches. He continued to shoot 'em into the air, many of them finding Cline's face and chest. He had to jump to get a fair smack at his opponent, but he did a good job of it.

Cline drew blood to Smith's nose in the third round, but the little fellow came out in the fourth and proceeded to carry the fight to Cline.

Decision Changed
As in the main go, the decision was reversed. Micky O'Reilly, referee, called it a draw, then gave the decision to Smith, and then wound up by announcing that, after all, it really was a draw.

Most of the crowd thought Smith earned the decision because of his aggressiveness and never-say-die spirit.

Bob McQuade of Circleville, took the decision from K. O. Van Fossen of Hayesville in four rounds. McQuade's looping left and change of stance kept the Hayesville entry guessing. McQuade's best round was the fourth, when he caused Van Fossen's knees to sag twice.

Kid Dayton of Hayesville, was given the referee's decision over Kid Wagner of Chillicothe. Wagner was down for a count of four in the second round, but came back and fought the Hayesville lad to a standstill. Dayton spent most of his strength churning his arms in menacing fashion every second.

Hill Shows Up Well
Kayo Hill of Circleville, earned a technical knockout decision over Kid Grossman, of Columbus, in the first-four-rounder of the evening. Hill is a good boy, and it's the guess of boxing fans that he'll be in better company before long. The referee stopped the fight in the third when Hill had Grossman groggy in his own corner.

Between bouts there were numerous announcements of challenges and acceptances—enough to warrant pretty good shows during the coming weeks.

BOXING

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Frankie Genaro, of New York, flyweight champion, defeated Ernie Peters, of Chicago, in a ten round bout. Genaro weighed in at 116 1/2 and Peters at 115. Billy Hoon, Rock Island, Ill., and Eddie Ballatin, Chicago, boxed a six round draw, 145 pounds. Lou Terry, Omaha, defeated Jimmy Borde, France, 6 rounds at 135 pounds. Cecil Como, New Orleans, defeated Sammy Ward, Texas, in 6 rounds at 128 pounds. Dick Earl, Chicago, defeated Harry Gray, Chicago, in 4 rounds at 145 pounds. Willie Pellegrini and Harry Fierro, both of Chicago, boxed a 6 round draw at 118 pounds.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—Bushy Graham, Utica, N. Y., bantamweight champion knocked out California Joe Lynch in the seventh round of their scheduled ten round bout. Graham took every round but the fifth in which Lynch was accorded an even break. The bout was so tame in the sixth that fans booed and the referee ordered the boys to mix.

32 GOLFERS IN WESTERN EVENT

BOB O' LINK GOLF CLUB, HIGHLAND PARK, Ill., Aug. 22.—Thirty-two golfers, one of the greatest championship brackets which ever has played in the western amateur tournament, started today in the first round of elimination match play.

Included among the 31 men who survived the qualifying rounds are four members of the British bracket.

SPORTSMATTERS BY FRANK GETTY

Goose Goslin's arm is gone; Tris Speaker has slowed down to a walk; Ty Cobb's steely, springy legs have turned to lead. The old boys are passing, leaving it to fellows like Jack Quinn and Clarence Mitchell to beat back the competition of youth and fire.

The 37-year-old Mitchell was pitching back in 1909 when Melvin Ott of the Giants was learning how to walk and talk. Fans in Detroit, Cincinnati, Brooklyn, Philadelphia and St. Louis have been cheering him for 19 years as he wafted his lazy spit-ball up to the plate.

Now he is the mystery man of baseball. Just what magic he conjures to turn back batters at an age when most pitchers have long since been in retirement is puzzling managers in general and John McGraw in particular. Mitchell is poison to the New York Giants and seemingly can strike them out by waving his glove at them.

Has Nothing But His Glove
Get into the grandstand behind home plate someday when Clarence is pitching and watch him send the ball up. It comes in as slow as a 16-pound shot and as big as a balloon. Mitchell himself cannot explain why hitters like Lindstrom, Ott, Jackson, Terry and Welsh are helpless in front of that soft, baby-like delivery. Some of his success, of course, lies in his wonderful control, but other pitchers have had control and been hammered hard.

Manager Bill McKechnie of the St. Louis Cardinals hired Mitchell to beat the Giants. McGraw will testify that Clarence is doing a great job. Mitchell is the freak of the major leagues—the only left-handed spitball pitcher in captivity.

When all others fail him, Connie Mack falls back on Quinn. Quinn's real name is John Quinn Picus, but at some period during the 44 years of his life, the old master lopped off his last names.

Day after day Quinn goes out to the mound, moistens the ball and proceeds to tie the opposition into knots. The burden of his 44 years seems to slip away and he is a strong-armed, cunning pitcher who knows the weakness of every batter who ever tried to hit .300 in the American League.

Drifted Out in 1914
Back in 1914, when the name of George (Babe) Ruth was being shouted around the world, the experts decided Quinn had seen his best days. He drifted to Baltimore of the Federal League and from there went to Vernon of the Pacific Coast circuit. The balm of California's climate, did wonders for his arm and in 1918 he came back to the major leagues. Since then Quinn has been working for New York, Boston and Philadelphia in the American League and has been doing a great job for all of them.

Jack also is a member of the fast dying tribe of spit-ball pitchers, but he also banks heavily upon his ability to put the ball exactly where he wants it.

"There is nothing remarkable about my pitching," he said recently. "I just keep working to retain my control. Then, I'm beginning to play the younger fellows don't know how to act when they see a spit-ball coming up. Maybe my diet has something to do with my success on hot days. I last all day on a pint of milk and eat a heavy meal in the evening."

If Quinn keeps on winning games, Connie Mack is likely to decide to put all his pitchers on a milk diet.

Baseball

Yesterday's Hero: Red Lucas, Cincinnati pitcher, who broke up a threatened New York rally by stopping a batted ball with his head, caroming it toward third base and enabling Dresen to throw out Wrightstone when a hit and two runs seemed unavoidable. The out was the third and enabled the Reds to beat the Giants, 3 to 2. Lucas was not badly hurt and was able to finish the game.

St. Louis had a chance to return to first place in the National League by virtue of New York's defeat but the Brooklyn Robins effectively checked them, 6 to 1. McWeeney allowed the Cardinals only three hits.

Proof that Philadelphia is wielding a "jinx" over the Chicago Cubs, was furthered yesterday when the tallenders won their sixth straight from McCarty's hopefuls, 3 to 1. Sheriff Blake was the victim.

Pittsburgh won a 6 to 2 win over Boston despite the fact that they only made one more hit than their opponents. Ray Kremer allowed 10 hits but kept them well enough scattered.

Wait Hoyt bested Sam Gray in a pitching duel and the New York Yankees toppled the St. Louis Browns, 3 to 1. Hoyt brought the Yanks through a number of narrow escapes.

Philadelphia made short work of Cleveland 12 to 4. The Athletics had all their runs in the bag before Cleveland succeeded in pushing a man over the bag. Old Jack Quinn was the winning pitcher.

OLD MEMORIES REVIVED WHEN RIVALS MEET

Tennis Days of Long Ago Recalled in Bundy-Wightman Match Today.

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY

United Press Staff Correspondent
FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Tennis memories of long ago were revived today when Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, diminutive Santa Monica, Cal., veteran, met Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, Boston, four times national champion, in the third round of the 41st annual national women's tennis championships at the West Side Tennis Club.

Mrs. Bundy, who was national champion in 1904, and is admittedly past 40, was a slight favorite to defeat Mrs. Wightman, who won her first title in 1909. Mrs. Bundy won her second round match yesterday from Eleanor Sears, Boston veteran, 6-1, 6-1, and Mrs. Wightman defeated Clara Green-span, New York, 6-4, 6-3.

Sixteen players remained in the singles when play started today with Helen Wills, the Berkeley, Cal., artist, an overwhelming favorite to capture her fifth championship. Miss Wills was paired with Mrs. L. A. Harper, Los Angeles, in the third round.

In her first appearance yesterday, Miss Wills defeated Mrs. J. Saunders Taylor, New York, in exactly 22 minutes, losing only 22 points. The scores were 6-0, 6-1. Miss Wills lost the only game on Mrs. Taylor's service, the New York woman winning the game, point on a net cord shot which just rolled over.

All eight seeded players remained undefeated when the third round started, but Penelope Anderson Richmond, Va., barely triumphed over little Evelyn Parsons, Palo Alto, Cal., 6-4, 5-7, 7-5. Miss Parsons was at match point in the third set, but could not go on to win.

Five of the sixteen remaining players in the singles are from California. Besides Miss Wills and Miss Bundy California was represented by Mrs. L. A. Harper, Los Angeles, Helen Jacobs, Santa Barbara, and Edith Cross, San Francisco, as play entered the third round.

With Big Stars

Lou Gehrig (377) singled and doubled in three trips.
P. Waner (369) singled twice and scored one run in five trips.
Al Simmons (366) singled in four trips.

Freddy Lindstrom (353) singled, stole a base and scored a run in four trips.
Babe Ruth (352) singled and scored a run in four trips.
Frank Frisch (301) went hitless but scored a run in four trips.

Harry Heilmann (297) failed to hit but scored a run in three trips.
Rogers Hornsby (376) did not play.

Grady Adkins of the Chicago White Sox 3 to 1. Adkins allowed seven hits but only once could the Senators bunch them for a run.

Detroit beat Boston 4 to 3, and had the better of the argument the whole way. The Tigers bunched hits in three innings for their runs and were in danger only in the ninth when a Boston rally was nipped after one run had been scored.

PUNCHES PILE UP IN FIGHTS HERE TUESDAY

And Reversed Decisions Have Fans At Sunshine Club Show Still Wondering.

Reversed decisions and plenty of punches featured the Sunshine Athletic club's boxing show at Mason's field Tuesday night. A good crowd found occasion to cheer a lot and fear still more, but despite the official shortcomings it was a good evening's entertainment after all.

Many People Calling At the Mykrantz Pharmacy To Learn Its Merits.

Immediately following yesterday's announcement that the advanced medical preparation, Konjola, was to be introduced in Circleville, many local people were eagerly seeking this medicine and

G. H. MOSBY Discoverer of Konjola. Telling of reports about it which they had received from relatives and friends in Cincinnati and other large cities where the herb compound was previously introduced. Many who called at the Mykrantz Pharmacy, stated they already knew about this medicine and some had secured it thru acquaintances at larger cities.

The extent to which this Konjola has aroused interest proves very clearly that health troubles, due to disordered stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, are so common that hundreds are suffering daily. The forms of misery described by a great many sufferers interviewed yesterday, were as follows:

STOMACH: Indigestion and gas bloating, feeling like a rock in the stomach, which in reality is a mass of undigested food, dyspepsia, intense pain in the stomach and chest, wild heart palpitation, feeling like a rock from the throat to the pit of the stomach, awful headaches, loss of weight, strength and tissue, sour stomach, dizzy spells, cramps, spitting up bits of half-digested food and a hot, sour liquid.

LIVER: Attacks of biliousness, sick headaches that may last for days, constipation, dizzy spells, yellowish complexion.

KIDNEYS: Sharp pains over the kidneys, a dull, aching feeling across the back, stiffness in the back and lower limbs, especially in the mornings just before arising, frequent getting out of bed, during the night, dizziness, spots before the eyes, lack of vitality.

BOWELS: Painful, bloated feeling in the lower stomach, worn out feeling, sleeplessness.

Many other forms of suffering arise from the disordered condition of the system that results from a sluggish stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. For instance, there may be rheumatic and neuritis troubles, with its agonizing aches and pains.

The above forms of suffering yield readily to the work of Konjola and this medical preparation has so completely ended the health troubles of so many thousands in larger cities that it is declared to be what countless sufferers in this section have long needed to actually reach their cases.

went on for six rounds with Wild cat Malone, of Marion, who was announced at 130 pounds, to a judges' decision.

Both experienced boxers, these boys didn't begin to mix it until the third round. Calvin did most of the leading, but Malone, who is nobody's fool in the ring, held him off with straight-arm jabs. They devoted most of their time to rushing each other into, over and under the ropes, with worth-while blows few and far between.

Malone Wins

Sailor Marshall refereed the bout, and was kept busy prying the boys apart.

At the conclusion Marshall announced the fight a draw. Everybody yelled—for or against—and several minutes after the fighters had left the ring, Marshall announced Malone as the winner.

By far the most entertaining scrap was of six rounds between Gene Smith of Circleville and Kid Cline of Ashland, Ky., at 126 pounds.

Handicapped in height and reach, tough little Gene had to skyrocket his punches. He continued to shoot 'em into the air, many of them finding Cline's face and chest. He had to jump to get a fair smack at his opponent, but he did a good job of it.

Cline drew blood to Smith's nose in the third round, but the little fellow came out in the fourth and proceeded to carry the fight to Cline.

Decision Changed

As in the main go, the decision was reversed. Micky O'Reilly, referee, called it a draw, then gave the decision to Smith, and then wound up by announcing that, after all, it really was a draw.

Most of the crowd thought Smith earned the decision because of his aggressiveness and never-say-die spirit.

Bob McQuade of Circleville, took the decision from K. O. Van Fossen of Hayesville in four rounds. McQuade's looping left and change of stance kept the Hayesville entry guessing. McQuade's best round was the fourth, when he caused Van Fossen's knees to sag twice.

Kid Dayton of Hayesville, was given the referee's decision over Kid Wagner of Chillicothe. Wagner was down for a count of four in the second round, but came back and fought the Hayesville lad to a standstill. Dayton spent most of his strength churning his arms in menacing fashion every second.

Hill Shows Up Well

Kayo Hill of Circleville, earned a technical knockout decision over Kid Grossman, of Columbus, in the first-four-round of the evening. Hill is a good boy, and it's the guess of boxing fans that he'll be in better company before long. The referee stopped the fight in the third when Hill had Grossman groggy in his own corner.

Between bouts there were numerous announcements of challenges and acceptances—enough to warrant pretty good shows during the coming weeks.

BOXING

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Frankie Genaro, of New York, flyweight champion, defeated Ernie Peters, of Chicago, in a ten round bout. Genaro weighed in at 116 1/2 and Peters at 115. Billy Hoon, Rock Island, Ill., and Eddie Ballatin, Chicago, boxed a six round draw. 145 pounds. Lou Terry, Omaha, defeated Jimmy Borde, France, 6 rounds at 135 pounds. Cecil Como, New Orleans, defeated Sammy Ward, Texas, in 6 rounds at 128 pounds. Dick Eari, Chicago, defeated Harry Gray, Chicago, in 4 rounds at 145 pounds. Willie Pellegrini and Harry Fierro, both of Chicago, boxed a 6 round draw at 118 pounds.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—Bushy Graham, Utica, N. Y., bantamweight champion knocked out California Joe Lynch in the seventh round of their scheduled ten round bout. Graham took every round but the fifth in which Lynch was accorded an even break. The bout was so tame in the sixth that fans booed and the referee ordered the boys to mix.

Included among the 31 men who survived the qualifying rounds are four members of the British bracket.

Goose Goslin's arm is gone. This Speaker has slowed down to a walk. Ty Cobb's steely, springy legs have turned to lead. The old boys are passing, leaving it to fellows like Jack Quinn and Clarence Mitchell, to beat back the competition of youth and fire.

The 37-year-old Mitchell was pitching back in 1909 when Melvin Ott of the Giants was learning how to walk and talk. Fans in Detroit, Cincinnati, Brooklyn, Philadelphia and St. Louis have been cheering him for 19 years as he waited his lazy spit-ball up to the plate.

Now he is the mystery man of baseball. Just what magic he conjures to turn back batters at an age when most pitchers have long since been in retirement is puzzling managers in general and John McGraw in particular. Mitchell is poison to the New York Giants and seemingly can strike them out by waving his glove at them.

Get into the grandstand behind home plate someday when Clarence is pitching and watch him send the ball up. It comes in as slow as a 16-pound shot and as big as a balloon. Mitchell himself cannot explain why hitters like Lindstrom, Ott, Jackson, Terry and Welsh are helpless in front of that soft, baby-like delivery. Some of his success, of course, lies in his wonderful control, but other pitchers have had control and been hammered hard.

Manager Bill McKenchie of the St. Louis Cardinals hired Mitchell to beat the Giants. McGraw will testify that Clarence is doing a great job. Mitchell is the freak of the major leagues—the only left-handed spitball pitcher in captivity.

When all others fail him, Connie Mack falls back on Quinn. Quinn's real name is John Quinn Pious, but at some period during the 44 years of his life, the old master lopped off his last names.

Baseball

Yesterday's Hero: Red Lucas, Cincinnati pitcher, who broke up a threatened New York rally by stopping a batted ball with his head, caroming it toward third base and enabling Dressen to throw out Wrightstone when a hit and two runs seemed unavoidable. The out was the third and enabled the Reds to beat the Giants, 3 to 2. Lucas was not badly hurt and was able to finish the game.

St. Louis had a chance to return to first place in the National League by virtue of New York's defeat but the Brooklyn Robins effectively checked them, 6 to 1. McWeeny allowed the Cardinals only three hits.

Proof that Philadelphia is wielding a "jinx" over the Chicago Cubs, was furthered yesterday when the tailenders won their sixth straight from McCarty's hopefuls, 3 to 1. Sheriff Blake was the victim.

Pittsburgh won a 6 to 2 win over Boston despite the fact that they only made one more hit than their opponents. Ray Kremer allowed 10 hits but kept them well enough scattered.

Wait Hoyt bested Sam Gray in a pitching duel and the New York Yankees toppled the St. Louis Browns, 3 to 1. Hoyt brought the Yanks through a number of narrow escapes.

Philadelphia made short work of Cleveland 12 to 4. The Athletics had all their rups in the bag before Cleveland succeeded in pushing a man over the bag. Old Jack Quinn was the winning pitcher.

WORKING OUR BRAINS

If you could enter any business or industrial establishment and get well acquainted with the workers, you would in time see that they could roughly be divided into two classes: First, those who use their brain power on their work. Second, those who do not.

The second element are thinking of anything but their work.
While their minds wander all over their circle of interests, their hands mechanically perform the job. They do the same old thing over and over again in the same old way.

Some people's jobs are so extremely mechanical that perhaps they can not be done in a different way. But usually when people exercise their mental power on the thing they are doing, they can improve the way they do it.

Then there are the people who put their brain power to work on their job, and who are constantly thinking how they can do that piece of work better, or how they can fit themselves for some more responsible and better rewarded work. Such people learn how to do things in a superior way, and their better service brings recognition.

The ordinary run of people have intelligence enough, but they fritter it away. If they will put their brain power to work, they will not merely secure better results in their occupations, but they will avoid many of the troubles of life.
Just a little more brain exercise, and the folks who get smashed up in automobile accidents and those who injure their health by wrong habits would save infinite trouble.
Brains were given people to think with, not to fill up the vacant spaces in their skulls.

The operation of thinking is called laborious by some, but if one exercises it a little, it comes easier, and the rewards are apparent.

WOMEN FIND BETTER JOBS

You know, of course, that there was a tremendous increase in the number of American women who worked for their living between 1910 and 1920. Don't you?

Well, you're mistaken. The Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor reveals that the increase in the number of women workers in that decade was the smallest in 50 years.

What really happened was that the number of women in some jobs increased enormously, while the number of women in other jobs decreased. Women servants, for instance, declined in number about 14 per cent, while the shrinkage in the number of women in agricultural work was even greater. On the other hand, the number of women in professions increased 39 per cent, while women in clerical work increased 140 per cent.

Nearly as many women were earning their own living 15 years ago as now, but they were doing it in less pleasant and remunerative ways.

SELF MADE MEN

Both of the leading candidates for president came from obscure and humble homes. They both started at the bottom of the ladder, and worked their way up by their own efforts.

Self made men are sometimes laughed at. It is often remarked they made their careers by their own ability and struggle, and are inclined to brag about it. Some of them delight in spreading themselves more than people who have always had wealth, and newly rich people are proverbially fond of display. But they are not all that way.

A great many of them always continue sympathetic to the environment from which they came. They do not forget the ordinary Tom, Dick and Harry by whose side they struggled and toiled in their early days. One of their principal thoughts is as to how they can lend a helping hand to men and women who are some-

STRIVE

Strive—
What though the goal you have
Be small—
Better a little work than none,
Better to try—than fail.

Strive—
Fight on with all your Power,
And some day when the sun has set
Ah, then will come your hour!

Strive—
You cannot lose a hard-fought
Fight;
And when the day is done Success will glide in with the night.

Strive—
Though in striving you have lost
The aim;
For the man without ambition
Is the man without a name.

how failing to make good in life.
Probably these two men did not at their school age show much more genius than the ordinary boys about them. But there are several qualities they must have had.

First, they must have always been looking for something bigger. When they saw one job of work done, they wanted to go on to something more hopeful.

Second, they must have done thoroughly everything they took up, so that whenever they did a thing well, it led people to depend on them for something more responsible. If people do thoroughly well the things that are given them to do, they can surely obtain promotion, if they go to work for it in the right way.

Qualities like these are not the possession of a few alone. A great many have them or could have them, by a little more grit and resolution, and the number of successful self made men could be far greater than it is.

OUR NEW RESPONSIBILITY

An ordinary photograph sometimes can tell more about what we call the trend of the times than a column of type.

Such a picture came across this desk the other day. It showed a street scene in a small native town in the Philippines, a day's journey from Manila. The town — its name doesn't matter—was in the interior, seldom frequented by white men. Streets were lined with native houses, and brown-skinned men and women, dressed as the Filipinos dressed when Magellan visited them, were busiling back and forth. Queer, ungainly, two-wheeled carriages crowded the roadway. It all looked very outlandish and foreign.

But—and here is the point—mingled in the stream of traffic were a good many highly up-to-date American automobiles. Native drivers piloted Chevrolets, Fords and Dodges in the maze of buffalo carts. There was even a Filipina traffic cop, made necessary, doubtless, by this advent of the motor car.

Now nothing can touch western civilization, with its highly complicated and servicable machinery, and remain unchanged. The automobile is something like a cake of yeast; drop it into any society and it produces a strange ferment.
The Philippines, having reached the point where the back-country natives drive cars will never be the same again.

This does not mean that the Filipino will, in five more years, be indistinguishable from the New Yorker. But it does mean that he is starting in that direction. He is beginning the same process of absorbing an alien culture that has struck a good many other people during the last dozen years. He is, in a strange sort of way, on the verge of becoming Americanized.

This may or may not be a good thing, from his viewpoint. It is quite possible that the Filipino would be happier if he continued to live as his fathers lived, and let automobiles and radios and moving pictures go by. But, for better or worse, he won't. Destiny apparently, has picked out America as the nation that shall influence all others for the next century or so. The Filipino can't help himself.

And the Filipino is only one among many. Everywhere, all over the world, Americanization is going on. Customs and habits centuries old are giving way to the influence of Detroit and New York. This may be for the best and it may not; that question is unimportant. It is happening, and there is no way to stop it. A new and sobering responsibility has been thrust upon us.

Philosophy is the comforting realization that weeds look about as green as grass if you keep them mowed.—Bridgeport Telegram.

Love's Ecstasy

by May Christie

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

ALEDA RAY, pretty country girl, and Gary Chester, young engineer, are in love. Alela, working as a stenographer in New York, is living with Marise de Renze, whose young, sophisticated sister, Goldie, and Clive Mortimer, ne'er-do-well Englishman, are engaged in a blackmailing game. They receive a "commission" to arrange a party for Smithson, wealthy rounder. Alela and Gary return at midnight from a drive into the country. Goldie, jealous of Gary's love for Alela, tricks Alela into attending Smithson's party and then sends a note to Gary asking him to meet Alela there.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Chapter XXXV.
T half past eleven at night
Goldie de Renze, accompanied by three giggling, highly decorated beauties whose general get-up was really startling, pushed Alela into a taxi-cab.
"Come on! Don't be a spoil-sport!"

"Don't throw a monkey-wrench into the works!"
"This way for little Smithson's show!"

Smithson! As the taxi rickshated and bounced on its way towards
"the party," Alela whispered to Goldie apprehensively: "Surely it isn't the same Mr. Smithson who tried to tip me five dollars at the Harvest Moon Club?"

"Aw, what of it? You forget it, kid! You're out for a good time!"

Before Alela's eyes arose a vision of the rotund, middle-aged, half-headed man who (to her mind) had so insulted her by offering money for her services as dance-partner!

It couldn't be the same. This man was married. Had a lot of children. Lived in the country, up Westchester way!

She felt nervous about this party. Like a fish out of water—that would be her role!

But with the memory of Gary Chester's parting words and look and handclasp—how she had thrilled to the enchanting hours he'd spent with him this evening!—nothing could really cast her down tonight, happen what may.

She was barely conscious of the broadway beauties' chatter. Alela forgot the party. She was wrapped in a high and happy mood.

They reached their destination.
The giggling girls poured out of the taxi, crossed the foyer of the apartment building, got into the elevator and were shot up to the roof.

A negro butler awaited their arrival. An inscrutable expression on his face, he took their wraps.

Loud salutations came from a long and low-ceilinged livingroom. Mr. Smithson—the very man whom Alela had so disliked at their previous meeting—darted forward, and with a girl on either arm, and shooting the others in front of him, presented each, in turn, to his out-of-town customers.

There was crackling repartee—tremendous joviality. Goldie, in highest fettle, executed a few dance steps. She cried: "Meet the shepherdess and her sheep!"

"Ba! Ba!" bleated Mr. Smithson, waving pudgy arms.

"The lambs to the slaughter!"
chortled a "butter and egg" man.
"Ha! Ha! Ha!"

"I'm the wolf in the fold! Watch out!" exclaimed another, delighted with his own witticism, and baring a vista of gold-filled teeth. He made a playful grab at Goldie, who eluded him. It was evident he had already "looked upon the wine when it was red."

"A cocktail—quick—to save me!" plaintively wailed a tow-headed maid.

"The lady's slightest wish is granted!" chanted little Smithson, waving on high a shaker, then pouring potions into glasses on which were painted a rampant bird. "Come on, everybody! This'll put a kick into proceedings."

One of his friends came forward towards Alela, holding the tray.
"No, thanks!" She shook her head.

At the same moment came a sharp pinch on the arm from

Goldie. "Don't be a little prude and a spoil-sport!"

She flushed. With a determined jerk that spilled some of the mixture on Alela's frock, Goldie handed the brimming glass to her.
"You drink—quick—or I'll make a fool of you in front of the whole crowd!"

A palm grew in a tub immediately behind Alela. She took the glass with shaking fingers, and a few seconds later, when attention was diverted from her, she emptied its contents at the base of the plant.

Goldie came up—saw the flushed face—the empty cup—and murmured, in a mollified tone:
"Atta girl!"

Alela moved off from her, to an open window giving on the roof. She wanted air—a long, deep breath.

There was a second round of cocktails. This time Alela was left unmolested. Then the negro butler, in a savorous voice, announced: "Super is served."

At the same moment he drew back a heavy curtain that divided a brick-floored platform or dais from the living-room.

There were ecstatic "Ah's!" and
"Oh's!" from the female element, as a candle-lighted and beautiful-decorated table, laden with all sorts of viands, was revealed.

In each girl's place reposed a lovely spray of delicate white orchids, tied with satin ribbon.
There was a magnificent centerpiece of American beauties, and trails of smilax ran the length of the table and criss-crossed, revealing here and there a deep red rose.

Metal-banded tubs of ice from which projected long-necked bottles carrying gold labels stood upon a little wagon. Mr. Smithson conducted his guests to the feast, took the head of the table, and, as he termed it, "the fun was on!"

It wasn't fun to poor Alela. She felt very ill at ease, and—somehow —afraid.

She felt still more apprehensive when, lifting her napkin to the tune of excited feminine exclaima-tions and shouts of appreciation, she discovered—as did each girl at the party—a small vanity case containing a fifty-dollar note!

Pickaway-twp. has one of the best school plants in central Ohio.
In addition to the twelve classrooms, there are the following:
large dining hall with a well-equipped kitchen and serving counter, a large home economics laboratory, nice auditorium with well-furnished stage, splendid library, large gymnasium entirely separate from the auditorium,

The eleventh Annual Camp Meeting at Mount of Praise, on E. Ohio-st., is scheduled for Aug.
24 to Sept. 2, inclusive.

The camp meeting follows the twentieth Annual Council Business sessions of the Church of Christ in Christian Union which precedes the camp meeting. The business council has a one week's session.

The preparation for the meeting of the business council and the camp meeting that follows has been going on for a month.
The building of an immense tabernacle, together with three dormitories to house the visitors from all sections of the country, and also the building of a big dining room to feed the multitude has been constructed. The sound of the hammer and saw, welded by a dozen or more men has been heard with neither the hot rays of the sun or the dashing rain stopping the work on the big tabernacle or other buildings.

To get an idea of the immense buildings now near completion one should visit Mount Praise.

Last year on the Sunday following the business session, and the beginning of the camp meeting, 6,000 people, adherents of the church gathered from all parts of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys and listened to the voices of the Evangelists, beseeching the members to live the purer life and get closer to God. It is the most wonderful gathering of people, who thoroughly believe in the religion, it is the religious belief of Alvin York, the world war veteran who proved to be the greatest hero of the army of occupation, who single handed captured 221 German soldiers, and made them prisoners.

science laboratory, and a four room suite for agriculture, shop and manual training. The building is steam heated, electric lighted, nicely decorated, and well furnished, including a stereopticon and a motion picture machine. The Nelson Hiller Memorial Library is one of the finest school libraries in Ohio and there is a nice sum of money available for improvements and additions this year.

Books, pencils, paper, and other supplies are furnished. In other words it is a "free" public school as far as school equipment is concerned. All the parent has to do is to feed and clothe the boys and girls and see that they get on the bus when it comes by the door. When patrons can put such educational opportunity as this at the service of its young citizens, they have a right to feel proud and may justly expect their community to profit by the education these youth secure as a result of this opportunity.

These campers are real Americans, they originally came from the mountain fastnesses of Kentucky and Tennessee, they come of the stock and blood that Abraham Lincoln, Andrew Jackson and Daniel Boone came from;
they fear nothing, and when the country's call to arms is heard, although they do not conscientiously believe in warfare, they are found in the front ranks.

The denomination disapproves the using of nicotine in any form, and among the members there are few users of tobacco, on the grounds the use of it is strictly prohibited.

Rev. O. L. Ferguson, who has had charge of the denomination of the Church of Christ in Christian Union, is really the power behind the church. It was he who took charge of the work of the Mission church in the South end of the city when no other minister could be found, and it was again this same man who took charge of the Home and Hospital, in caring for the people left there without care. Mr.
Ferguson has been hard at work at the tabernacle sawing away and fitting boards in the floor.

The big tabernacle is 98 feet wide and 106 feet long, it has arch trusses supporting the roof 68 feet long. The floor gradually slopes toward the stage at a four foot elevation. The arches alone contain 2,000 feet of lumber, and there are a number of these supporting the wide expanse of roof.
It took 200 rolls of built up roofing to cover the roof.

The location of the tabernacle is ideal. It is built on a hill, and the seating arrangement follows the contour of the slope making the stage at the bottom of the hill. Only a portion of the area

ROSE BUSH MAY BE SAVED AGAIN THRU SPRAYING

Pests and Diseases Take No Summer Vacation In Any Year.

If you are a real flower-lover with so much as a single rose bush, you will be interested in knowing the perils of disease which the plant faces and how they can be overcome.

Rose pests and diseases take no summer vacations. This applies particularly to plant-lice, black spot and mildew. Plant-lice, which suck the juices from the tender growing shoot, can be controlled effectively by the use of a good contact insecticide. A single application is not enough. Use it as often as the pests are present.

Another rose enemy causing trouble now, if ignored in early summer, is black spot. The disease is just what the name suggests—the leaves of plants are covered with spots more or less circular and black. Often the disease causes complete defoliation.
Two things are required in a fungicide to control this, as well as other fungous diseases of the rose. The material applied must protect the plant, and be as inconspicuous as possible when put on the plants. Lime sulphur and Bordeaux mixture color the foliage excessively. Some of the commercial dusts and sprays are more satisfactory than these old remedies.

is floored, and that is at the rostrum, which is 20x98 feet. The rest of the wide expanse or area in the tabernacle is just terra firma. Big wide gates or doors are thrown open to leave in the light and fresh air. Over head are large ventilators in the roof affording a good clear current of fresh air.

Five hundred people can be fed in the restaurant and dining room at one time. Elaborate arrangements are being made to take care of the crowds that are sure to come. Even the sleeping quarters have been looked after by the management, and both men and women dormitories have been erected. The three dormitories are 16x110; 22x80, and 22x100. They are two story affairs. The dining room is 60x80 feet.

The buildings are located on seven acres of land, and ample provision is being made for the care of the crowd. Last year they came from Tennessee, Oklahoma, Kentucky, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Indiana and West Virginia.

BOY WHO CAME

milling about the streets and about the grounds before the domeless capitol where most of them will have to stand tonight to hear the governor's address.

Union station was a panorama of special trains, more than 20 of them arriving this morning. Incoming roads resounded with the noise of nervous sirens. Big river boats coughed up to the dock and unloaded their pilgrims. Tammany's loyal sons jostled with each other as they hurried from nine special trains. Prominent party leaders were shuffled about like ordinary citizens.

The nominee joined in the welcome. Numbers of personal friends drove up to the mansion for a handshake and a word. He was kept busy, as was Mrs. Smith.

During the day, the governor turned his attention to the future, discussing his speaking tour, which will begin soon after Labor Day—with party leaders—Chairman John J. Raskob of the national committee, his running-mate, Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, Senator Peter G. Gerry of Rhode Island, chairman of the advisory committee, Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, who will largely direct the southern campaign, Senator Harry B. Hawes of Missouri, western manager, and others.

The governor was not so busy that he did not take time for chats with many old friends of his early days who are here for the notification.

Yesterday, he too: the afternoon off, after a strenuous session testing the broadcasting apparatus and posing for photographers and played golf with Norman H. Davis, assistant secretary of state in the Wilson administration, at the latter's place in Stockbridge, Mass., about 40 miles away. He returned here last night.

The crowd will begin to seek places to stand long before the notification ceremonies are scheduled. It has been estimated that at least 100,000 will be massed in the park about the capitol and in the streets leading away. According to an official estimate made last night 144,000 can get within this area.

FOUR FAMILIES HOLD REUNION

Sunday, Aug. 19, 1928 will be a day long to be remembered when the 10th annual reunion of the Long-Stump-Trone families together with the Marburger descendants, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Trone at East Ringgold. Relatives to the number of 200 came from far and near with well filled baskets and at the noon hour a most sumptuous dinner was enjoyed by all, self serve style under the large tent erected for the occasion.

In the afternoon after a short business session, a most interesting program was listened to which consisted of several hymns by the whole group, a history of each of the four families which revealed many interesting features; also several readings by Edna Trone, of Lancaster; violin solos by Charles Robert Trone of Ashville, accompanied by Mrs. Orville Trone of Circleville; vocal solo by Mrs. Maude Trone Croy, of Xenia, and old-time music by the Trone orchestra.

The following were registered: Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Shipley, Reginald, Robert and Janet Shipley, Margaret Duer, Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Will, Mr. and Mrs. John R.
